Disguising Yourself as a Zombie

You can use the disguise skill to make yourself or someone else appear to be a zombie, well, without a lack of caffeine that is. As long as you have the skill you can do a passable job of making a zombie disguise. However, once zombies or other humans see you then you should roll a contest of your disguise skill against their senses. If you win the zombie or person seeing you thinks you are a zombie.

There are some limitations on this. You must still act like a zombie in order to fool anyone. Talking, driving, using tools or ballroom dancing will all give you away. When dealing with zombies you also have to take into account their sense of smell.

As long as you are not upwind from a zombie you can get within fifty or so feet before they will notice that you smell like a human. If you are upwind they can tell from three times that distance at least. There is no real way to remedy this. Anything that covers your scent, like ammonia or lots and lots of Axe body spray, will smell funky enough that zombies will come over to investigate anyway. Rubbing yourself in zombie guts or similar makes you smell like both a human and a zombie and zombies ignore the smell of other zombies.

Be careful using disguises as other survivors may also think you are a zombie and shoot you.
